About the choir

Formed in 2010 by Richard McVeigh, the Winchester Cathedral Chamber Choir already enjoys an enviable reputation for its performances of sacred music, particularly from the Renaissance period. The past year has seen the choir singing not only in Winchester Cathedral but at Christchurch Priory, Dorset, Salisbury Cathedral and Romsey Abbey. In January 2011 the choir made a recording of film music at Pinewood Studios and is due to make another recording in 2012.

The choir is made up of a diverse mix of people; students from local schools and universities, three medical Doctors, a Warfare Officer in the Royal Navy, music teachers and council works amongst many other professions. Despite the mix of background the choir is united in its love and passion for performing a wide range of sacred (and secular) music.

Being a member of the WCCC also affords exciting and unique experiences at singing regularly in one of the most beautiful Norman/Gothic cathedrals in the country which is famed for being amongst the largest in England.

Not only do the choir work very hard to prepare the music to a high standard, but they also have a lot of fun along the way. Near the cathedral are a comprehensive selection of traditional pubs and restaurants where the choir normally reside. The combination of hard work and fun makes the WCCC an exciting group to which to belong.

ADVENT CONCERT

Music to be announced

Joining the choir

The Musical Director of the Winchester Cathedral Chamber Choir is always pleased to hear of prospective members for the choir. He is looking for people of all ages with a passion for sacred music, and the ability to adapt to different styles of music. Sight-reading skills and the ability to learn music quickly are also desirable.
